

CONTENTS

Introduction	7
List of Photographs	27
Acknowledgements	29

I.

JOHN LE CARRÉ. A Great Talent that was a bit of an Orphan . . .	33
MIKHAIL HEIFETS. The Empire he was Loyal to was the Russian Language.	47
LEV LOSEFF. He Lived at Extraordinary Pace	85
IGOR EFIMOV. Navigators in the Ocean of Spirit	105
GENRIKH STEINBERG . Joseph Wanted to Know Everything . .	119
EDWARD BLOOMSTEIN. Penetrating to the Depth of Things .	141
MIKHAIL ARDOV. Leaving this Place is Impossible but Living here is also – Inconceivable	153
OLEG TSELKOV. With his Own Point of View on Everything .	165
TOMAS VENCLOVA. He Tended to Ascribe his own Traits to Other Poets	177
VIKTOR GOLYSHEV. He was too Democratic to be an ‘Aesthete’	189
ALEKSANDR SUMERKIN. Continuation of Poetry by Other Means	203
PETR VAIL. Brodsky’s Poetic Globe is Equal to the Geographical one	217
BENGT JANGFELDT. The Terrible Fate of a Russian Poet . . .	231

II.

LUDMILA SHTERN. He Needed to have this kind of Dulcinea	243
NATALYA GORBANEVSKAYA. He was Lonely Everywhere . .	255
ZOFIA KAPUŚCIŃSKA. In Search of New Meaning	267
ANNIE EPELBOIN. Generations of Suffering People Speaking through him Over the Ages	285
ELENA CHERNYSHEVA. Russia was his Heartache	299
NATASHA SPENDER. Ranging over Poetry of all Ages	309
SUSAN SONTAG. He Landed among us like a Missile	323
ANNELISA ALLEVA. There was a Lot of him, a Whole Mosaic .	333

TATIANA RETIVOV. His Voice Remains Unique	353
TATIANA SHCHERBINA. A Demiurge, a Prophet, a Philosopher	373
DASHA BASMANOVA. A Unique Sense of Internal Freedom and Self-esteem.	397
PASHA BASMANOVA. His World is Language	401
ANASTASIYA KUZNETSOVA. One can be Worthy of him Only in a Loving Way	405

III.

SEAMUS HEANEY. The Young Poet in him Never Aged	419
MARK STRAND. Joseph was a Great Choice for Poet Laureate	431
DEREK WALCOTT. Almost Medieval Devotion to his Craft . .	441
JONATHAN AARON. He Pushed English to its Limits	455
WILLIAM WADSWORTH. A Turbulent Affair with the English Language	463
LES MURRAY. English for him was Associated with Civilization	481
MATTHEW SPENDER. A Necessary Smile	491
SAM BRUSSELL. He Restored to Poetry its Metaphysical Dimension	507

IV.

ALAN MYERS. The Handmaid of Genius	515
DANIEL WEISSBORT. Nothing is Impossible	541
PETER FRANCE. A Dictionary-haunted Poetry	553
MICHAEL SCAMMELL. He Responded to Christianity Aesthetically	565
PAUL KEEGAN. He Wanted to Infect English with the Virus of History	577
ROGER STRAUS. A Great Poet was Living among us.	585
Name Index	593